

“Nothing is a waste of time if you use the experience wisely.”—Rodin French, sculptor (1840 - 1917)

The Trivial Notions Seminar
Proudly Announces

Balanced, but not Kähler

A talk by
Ming-Tao Chuan

Abstract

In this talk, I will introduce the notion of balanced metric, which is much less studied than the Kähler metric in complex geometry. I will start by characterizing a balanced metric using the torsion of the associated Hermitian connection, and then an explicit example of a balanced manifold which is not Kähler will be given.

Thursday, March 20th, 2008 at 3:07 pm
Science Center 232